BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON SUNDAY, MARCH 30th

Jesus Lays Down His Life (Our Crucified King)

Printed Text John 18:37, 38; 19:10-16, 25-30.

After Jesus' prayer of intercession, which we studied last week, He took the eleven apostles across the brook Cedron to the Mt. of Olives and entered Gethsemane. Here, amid the trees of the garden, Jesus prayed, alone. Alone because the disciples, who should have been watching and praying were sleeping. Small wonder that they had so little power, in the face of the trials, which were to follow. Could this be the reason why so many churches and so many Christians are so devoid of power today? Never since the day of its beginning has the church been faced with such conditions as confront it now. But like the disciples in the garden, all too many of her members are "asleep" to the danger, and will be taken entirely by surprise, when the crucial moment arrives.

It was here, in the garden, that Judas, who was guiding the band of soldiers, sent by the chief priests, found Jesus, and identified Him for the arresting officers. They, in turn, led Him away. He was taken first to the high priest, and then sent to Pilate. Since the Romans reserved to themselves the right to pass a death sentence, it was necessary to have Pilate's signature on the death warrant, or the chief priests, themselves, would have been held guilty of murder. It is here before Pilate, that the events enumerated in verse 37, of the printed text take place.

The charge, which the chief priests had presented to Pilate, upon which to demand the death penalty, was treason, saying that He laid claim to being the king of the Jews. It was due to this accusation that Pilate asks the question, which we have recorded here; "Art thou a king then?" Jesus' answer amounts, in substance, to this: You say I am a king. I was born to this end, and for this cause, that I should bear witness unto the truth, I am come into the world. He then adds another sentence, which had Pilate accepted, would have meant his salvation. "Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice." But Pilate side stepped, and asked "What is truth?" Here is a splendid example of the fact that the world cannot discern the things of God. Pilate asks what is truth, when very Truth stood before him. Perhaps, we might best describe Pilate as being like many public officials, of our own day. He knew what was right, but he was more interested in his own political popularity than in seeing justice done to an innocent man.

In the first recorded verses of the nineteenth chapter, we find Pilate questioning Jesus, but receiving no answer. Finally to a rather threatening question, Jesus replies that Pilate could have no power at all against Him, if it had not been given from above. He then adds: "therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin." In other words, the sin of Annas and Caiaphas, in delivering Jesus to Pilate, was greater than that of Pilate in signing His death warrant.

Verses twelve through fifteen describe Pilate's various attempts to set Jesus free, and also show the bitter determination, of His enemies, to bring about His execution. Finally, under the veiled threat of having his action reported to Rome, if he released Jesus, Pilate delivered Him, to them, to be crucified.

The scene now shifts to the cross at Calvary. Here, we see those faithful friends standing by the cross. Though their hearts are torn with grief, for this one whom they loved, they stood by to the end, even though there was nothing which they could do, or would be permitted to do for Him. In the midst of His suffering, Jesus is still thinking of those who were His. John, always reticent, does not mention his own name among them. But he records the fact that Jesus commits Mary, His mother, to John as his mother, and in turn commits John to Mary, as her son. This would give each of them someone else to be interested in, after He is gone. This also made provision for the care of Mary, in her declining years.

The period of His suffering is now complete. Everything, which He was to accomplish, on the cross, has been done. And now Jesus utters the only note of physical discomfort, which He uttered while on the cross; "I thirst." Two facts stand out here. The scriptures cannot be broken. The psalmist had foretold in Psalm 69:21, "and in my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink." The other is that these hardened Roman soldiers had more compassion on Him, in His suffering, than His own people, the Jews.

Finally, in verse thirty, we hear Him say, "It is finished." Just three words, but so far reaching in their significance. They mark the end of the law and the beginning of the New Testament of grace. Jesus did not die from His wounds or from pain. He dismissed His spirit, in order to bring in the new covenant. He died in the midst of sinners, so that sinners, all about Him might live, if they will only accept by faith, the sacrifice which He made there at Calvary.

"Mercy there was great, and grace was free;
Pardon there was multiplied to me;
There my burdened soul found liberty,
At Calvary."

DEATH

Warren C. Arnold, age fifty-seven years, of 720 Chestnut Blvd., Cuyahoga Falls passed away Wednesday, March 19th. He is survived by his wife, Loucella A.; two daughters, Mrs. M. J. Sandercox of Stow and Mrs. Ivan Haines, Jr., of Washington, D. C.; five sons, Carl, Howard, Victor of Stow; Richard and Donald at home; also twelve grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. V. A. McClister of Longview Ave., and Mrs. Edwin Craig of Steiner ave., Springfield Lake; three brothers, A. A. Arnold of Barberton, M. S. Arnold of Devonshire Dr., Akron and H. S. Arnold, Longwood, Florida. Funeral services were held last Saturday afternoon at the Stow Church of Christ, Rev. L. M. Gregory officiating. Burial was in Stow Cemetery.

Mr. Arnold previous to his residence in Cuyahoga Falls for many years made his home in Stow township, first operating a farm, later going into the real estate business. In the latter occupation he developed the allotment known as Arnold Acres building many of the homes there. He was a member of the Stow Church of Christ.

In remarks at the funeral service Rev. Gregory recalled that when he first came to Stow over twenty years ago his chief recollection of the first Sunday service was Mr. Arnold, his wife and ALL their children sitting together in a pew well toward the front of the church.

Ill for many months before his death, it was no doubt a comforting thought to the sick man that he had good children, all active in the work of the church. And after all,—what is more important than to raise a family who know and love the Lord?

DEATH

Fred A. "Uncle Fred" Coffeen, age ninety years, died on Wednesday of last week at his home on the Kent-Stow Rd. near Fish Creek. He has been in slowly failing health for quite sometime and became suddenly ill on the Sunday preceding his death.

Born in Colborne, Ontario, Canada, Mr. Coffeen came to this community 82 years ago. He was a member of the First Methodist church, Kent, and until his health failed, was one of its most ardent workers. He and his wife, Mary, who died two years ago this month served as superintendents of the cradle roll and beginners' departments for more than 50 years. Many of Kent's adults, who were pupils in this department years ago, looked upon "Uncle Fred" as their godfather as concerning their religious training.

A member of the official board of the church for many years, he had been made emeritus member when he became unable to continue to serve.

One of his chief joys in recent months was to look over the cards

A contractor-carpenter in Kent for many years, Mr. Coffeen operated a wood working shop on Gougler ave., in recent years, retiring about four years ago.

He was a charter member of the Woodmen of the World.

Survivors include one son, Carl D. of Stow, superintendent of Summit county schools, and two sisters, Mrs. Sill Hall and Mrs. Maude Taylin, both of Akron.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m., Friday, by the Rev. Joseph E. Henderson in the Bissler funeral home. Burial was in Stow cemetery.

Ed. Note. For these paragraphs preceding we are indebted to our correspondent at Fish Creek, who, as do all other friends, extends sympathy of the folks there to the families of both Mr. Coffeen and Mr. Arnold.

SUNDAY SERMON

Choosing as a scripture I Kings twenty starting at verse twenty-six and reading to the end of the chapter, Mr. Wallace who occupied our pulpit last Sunday morning presented the story of the disobedience of King Ahab to God's command regarding the disposal of the Syrian King Ben-hadad who had been defeated by the Israelites in battle. The command was that the enemy king should be destroyed, but Ahab seeking to improve on God's plan and bring credit to himself made a covenant with Benhadad and let him go.

Then, the prophet disguising himself and appearing before the apostate king told a fanciful story (by way of illustration) how he had been charged with the keeping of a prisoner during the battle or penalty of his own life or paying a talent of silver if the man escaped.

Now—to quote the prophet and the text of Mr. Wallace's sermon (1st part verse 40) "And as thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone." On the basis of this story Ahab at once condemned the disguised prophet. Then quickly removing his disguise the prophet is recognized by the king who now hears the pronouncement of his own, a similar sentence—quote "Thus saith the Lord, Because thou hast let go out of thy hand, a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people."

Returning now to that portion of the scripture selected for a text: "And as thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone." It is God's will today that no man be lost. After our own salvation has been made secure our greatest responsibility is the saving of another soul. Each child of God has this opportunity. The present day world is filled with multitudes of lost,—people who have failed to make life's Greatest Decision,

COMMUNITY SING

If you enjoy singing, or

If you enjoy trying to sing, or

COME! BRING THE FAMILY! BRING YOUR FRIENDS! COME!

many perchance because you or I did not show them the way.

It was Mr. Wallace's opinion that more souls will be in Hell because of sins of omission than for sins of commission. He gave instance after instance where men and women of today in the words of our text are so "busy here and there" that the one whom we should lead to Christ "is gone" before we speak to him.

It was pointed out that it is the Devil's aim to keep us busy. Preferably busy with that which is evil, but more often than not he would keep us busy with that which is good,—just so we have no time for any personal work in the extension of Christ's Kingdom. It might even be possible that we should be so busy studying the Bible, or perchance attending distant Bible conferences. A minister for instance may be so busy with his theology, social betterment program, or building a new church that sinners passes on to death and destruction without his help.

While Mr. Wallace did not say anything about it, we know of one individual who in times past has been so busy publishing the Community Church News that there was no time to attend a Wednesday evening prayer service and very little time to speak in private to a soul seeking the way of Salvation.

Verily, Verily this business of doing the Lord's work should take our best thought. Too often the Devil masquerades as an Angel of Light and before we know it our efforts for the Lord are on the side track.

But continue to seek his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added to you. Matthew 6:33

BUSINESS MEETING: — As this started out to be a report on last Sunday's experiences, particularly at Church we should include the business meeting.

Since notice of this meeting had previously been mailed to members there was a goodly number present. After listening to a report of the Pulpit committee a vote was taken and on the first ballot—, 100% voting, there was not a single dissenting vote. It was unanimously decided to call the minister in question. If he accepts more will be published later.

Before we get too far along with this write up, those who are in the habit of attaining Community Church must have noticed the condition of the walls, drapes, etc. clean-clean-clean. Even the electric light bulbs were wiped off. Only one thing more might be suggested. Some time the men ought to rent a floor sander, remove the pews, sand the floor and varnish the same. A new carpet in the aisle would help some too.

In the afternoon there was a wedding at Community Church. It's now Mrs. Eddie Sanner. We would write more but an official write up with pictures has been promised for - maybe this week maybe next week.

On Wednesday evening, don't forget the prayer meeting. And on the Thursday evening preceding Easter it is entirely possible that a union Communion service will be held with the Stow Church of Christ. Announcement regarding this will probably be made from the pulpit Sunday.

her seeming aloneness in the group, the chaplain spoke to her. As she answered his questions and explained that her parents were dead, something of horror became apparent in her eyes as her memory flashed back to what must have been a dark day in the child's experience.

As she finished her story about being harried across the face of a war-ravaged Europe, she drew out the battered remnants of what had been a portion of Scripture, and she told of the verse that had helped her. Haltingly she read: "When my father and mother forsake me, then the Lord will take me up."

The Christian can always have the living Presence of his Lord to go along with him. In every trial, in every vicissitude, Christ abides. When friends leave or loved ones fail, He is "with us even unto the end of the world."

The early church spoke of His Holy Spirit as "Parakletos" "The friend who goes along side to help." How true that still is for each of us. From the Secret Place.

"AND HE THAT KEEPETH HIS COMMANDMENTS DWELLETH IN HIM." I John 3:24.

Nothing in the spiritual life is more essential than abiding in Christ; few things are more misunderstood. But with the inspired clarity so characteristic of his writings, the Apostle John here tells us how to abide in Christ. The principle is that of simple obedience. Keep Christ's commandments and you dwell in Him. That is what John is saying. It is significant that the word translated "dwelleth" is the same word employed by our Lord Himself when He said, "Abide in Me, and I in you." So John literally wrote this, "He that keepeth His commandments 'Abideth' in Him."

This illustrates the intense practicality of spiritual truth. Mysticism would link abiding in Christ with certain ecstatic experiences; the inspired Apostle identifies it with our daily obedience to the Lord, and so brings it within the range of every disciple. Obey Christ and you will be abiding in Him. That is the way to live the spiritual life.

BUILDING COMMITTEE

J. Willard Davis, Lynn Snyder and Cecil Rearick have been appointed as the official building committee for Stow Community Church. First on the program is a parsonage, next a new church building. Results? We have a feeling it will not be long now until you see the dirt flying skyward somewhere, the foundation base being laid, the walls going up, the rafters, the roof—Ah Yes! Where there is a will there is a way—and with unity of purpose there are certain to be results.

THANK YOU

The Ladies Guild wish to thank Mrs. J. W. Davis and Mr. Stockman for their work on the Guild Programs. Ed. Note: We believe Mrs. Dike had something to do with making up these programs too.

Dear Pop:

I have a correction to make in last week's paper (14 Mar 47) concerning the Youth Conference here at Taylor.

This conference has no connection whatsoever with "the present-day Youth for Christ Crusades" (that is as far as organization is concerned).

The Youth Conference was started here fourteen years ago and is an annual event (one of the founders was cousin Park Anderson); while the Youth for Christ movement was started approximately five years ago at Brooklyn, N. Y. The only connections these movements have is a sympathetic spirit and a common goal; that of bringing more young people to Jesus Christ.

travel in the United States can compare with that in Mexico. Winding roads, up and down, up up, once the road elevation was fourteen thousand feet, so high that their Mexican driver warned them that their fountain pens might leak. Looking down into his pocket Mr. Becker discovered that this had happened. And, incidentally, just to show that price is not everything, while telling of this incident, son Robert Bruce Becker spoke up and told of having a dollar forty nine cent pen which as an AAF Pilot he carried during the war to heights up to forty thousand feet and—NEVER A LEAK but his dad's pen, a gift, costing $50.00—LEAKED at a mere fourteen thousand foot elevation.

Knight now living in Cuyahoga Falls but formerly of Stow, after four years in the Marines, on his discharge became associated with the Bedford Springs Hotel, Bedford Springs, Pa. First he was general manager. This year he was elected Vice President of the organization which is no small job. The hotel, a large resort, situated in the midst of several hundred acres of scenic country side, caters to those who can afford to pay. Run on the European style rates for rooms are twenty and thirty dollars a day. While the season opens in May, Mr. Knight, senior tells us that his son Harris has the hotel booked solid for some time past up until the opening in May, with conventions of one sort or another. As a small boy, some in Stow will remember Harris as playing a trombone in the Stow School Band. In the Cuyahoga Falls High School he was the first Drum Major.
