

ROBISON PATROLS AT NIGHT

by Nancy Lee Riney (Second of a Series)

Sleep, Stowians....sleep, still in your slumber while the guardians of Stow, the Stow Police Department, keep their silent surveillance of your safety! Patrolman Richard "Robbie" Robison is one of the protecting patrolmen from whom the night has no secrets. He works night-turn exclusively.

"Robbie" belongs to that particular group of individuals, who 'come alive during the night hours and reach the peak of efficiency after the sun goes down'. He is also a member of that unique group of individuals whose main interest and outside hobby is that of the Stow Police. Membership is comprised wholly of Stow Police Department employees.

These are 'thinking men', who have 'thinking men's tastes' and spend every spare hour off duty either learning more about police work or working for free in the pursuance of their duty. They have filtered out all other forms of frivolity in the ambitious aspirations of being able to have gained enough technical and practical knowledge to be able to 'think for themselves'. This has and will cause much chagrin to all those operating outside the law, due to the factor of a more immediate expediency in the solutions to crimes committed.

Living proof of this much publicized 'thinking man', Patrolman Robison is finding fulfillment of a life-long ambition....that of being on the police force. An Akron boy, he graduated from South High School, served with the US Navy, Shore Patrol, the latter term of his duty being performed at Yokosuka, Japan. For the last 4-H Clubs - What Are They?

Bob Benson, County Extension Agent, 4-H says this is the first question that 4-H advisors, 4-H members, and parents are asked when they tell someone that they are part of the Summit County 4-H club program.

Benson says, 4-H clubs are organized groups of urban, suburban, and rural boys and girls, 10 to 21 years of age.

Each club elects its own officers and plans and conducts programs based on the needs and interests of its members. There are 59 4-H clubs, with 80 volunteer adult advisors in Summit County.

Members select their own projects from over 130 available. They make decisions on their club and community activities under the guidance of the Summit County Agricultural Extension Service and local advisors.

The 4-H's represent Head, Heart, Hands and Health. The primary aims of 4-H are to provide opportunities for the mental, physical, social and spiritual growth of young people. Informal education supplements training received in the home, church, school and other agencies. Specifically, objectives are to help boys and girls, young men and women to:

1. Acquire knowledge, skills and attitudes for a satisfying home and family life.
2. Enjoy a useful work experience, together with the responsibility and satisfaction of personal accomplishment.
3. Develop leadership talents and abilities to achieve their citizenship potential.
4. Appreciate the values of research and learn scientific methods of making decisions and solving problems.
5. Recognize the importance of scientific agriculture and home economics and their relationship to our total economy.

STATE AID FOR STOW?

Especially written for The Stow Press by G. T. Miedl

This article is being written in an attempt to clarify some of the ideas circulating in Stow about state aid to schools - particularly the possibility of state aid to build a more adequate gym at Stow High School.

Every year the state legislature makes available $10,000,000 to be used for aid to the school systems of the state where emergency overcrowding makes such aid necessary. The State Department of Education, under the direction of Mr. Utterback, administers the distribution of these funds for the State Board of Education, the body which passes final judgment on the need for such aid.

Distribution of this $10,000,000 fund is entirely on the basis of need. In order for a district to demonstrate need, the people in that district need to be taxing themselves as heavily as possible in proportion to their ability to pay such taxes. To make a decision in this area, the State Department of Education uses the per pupil valuation as the basis for determining needy districts.

Stow qualifies from this standpoint. The per pupil valuation (that is, the valuation of real estate including improvements thereon, divided by the number of students) in Stow is less than $8,000. This compares with the per pupil valuation in other areas approaching six figures. With the establishment of the proposed industrial park, the per pupil valuation would rise greatly and more money be available with no increase in taxes necessary. More money would therefore be available for schools, even though state aid would no longer be necessary.

After determining the financial need, the State Department sends a team of inspectors to the needy district to determine if the financial need and the actual need are the same. The inspection team

PLAYERS HAVE COMEDY HIT

by Peg Knight

Stow Players opened a ridiculous farce Friday night, and left the audience weak from laughter.

"Mrs. Gibbons' Boys", by Will Glickman and Joseph Stein, treats mother love in a wildly unorthodox fashion. It has to -- Mrs. Gibbons' boys are unorthodox children. Two are serving time, having graduated from petty to grand larceny, and the third is shadowed by the parole officer. It's when the older boys take an unauthorized vacation from prison just as Mrs. Gibbons has found romance that things begin to happen -- jeopardizing true love and almost everything else!

Thora Mills turns in an expert portrayal of the sweet, thoughtful mother -- one who admonishes her prison-palored son to "sit in the sun when they let you out in the yard," and wouldn't hurt the smallest living thing until her "boys" are threatened. You'd never believe she could flatten the biggest man around with a touch of judo -- till you see it!

George Seccombe, as her youngest son, is just right in his role of the kid you'd hate to have Four ordinances were passed at last Thursday's council meeting, all necessary to Commerce Dr. construction.

Council approved the budget of $201,942, including a slight increase for some village employees.

They passed a resolution that authorizes Meryl Canavan, Robert Woodard, Ronald Harper, and Betty J. Thompson to receive bail.

Ken Sauter requested acceptance of the plat for Silver Crest Development on Graham Rd.

Walter Bobotek, Tri-County Planning Commission, complimented the Mayor's Citizens Planning Committee, saying that if more communities had such an interested and hardworking group their problems could be worked out more quickly.

Temporary recommendations for changing our zoning ordinances were turned over to Council Planning Committee.

WHAT IS BEST FOR CLASSROOM CHILD?

Mrs. Jack W. Noll, 59 West Main Street, Munroe Falls, a member of Stow's School Board, has cited the one guiding principle in the co-operation in all areas of a school system and the local community for the result of an over-all improvement of education. "What Is Going To Be Best For The Child In The Classroom?" should form the platform for future planning in public education.

At the 92nd Convention of The American Association of School Administrators (AASA), held at Convention Hall, Atlantic City, New Jersey, Mrs. Noll heard C. C. Trillingham, Superintendent of Los Angeles Schools, Los Angeles, Cal., express these views about the classroom child in public schools when he addressed the vast assemblage. Mr. Trillingham stated... "when the day comes that public education has to be saved, it won't be in Washington but it will be in local school districts.

"The fate of our 45,000 school districts across the nation depend on the caliber of our administrators, the competence of teachers in their interest and concern, the large thinking of the school board member and the support of the parents and lay people."

visited Stow on two occasions, and found the need in Stow to be fairly slight. On one occasion, no money was voted for Stow. On the next occasion, $30,000 was allocated to Stow. This would have been given as a loan - rather than as a gift - and would have had to be paid back in twenty years through increased taxes. The inspection team is primarily interested in the classrooms available for students. In Stow, there are enough classrooms for students. Overcrowding is not apparent in the classroom. Perhaps there is agreement that the gym or other facilities are inadequate but this is of no consequence when it comes to state aid. State aid is given only to those districts where the actual classroom situation becomes so overcrowded as to seriously affect adversely the education of the children of the district. On this basis Stow does not need state aid. The people and administration of the Stow schools provide the basic essentials for their students.

There is one way remaining whereby Stow can build itself a gymnasium - tax itself through bond issues to obtain money to build it on their own. Perhaps, if this is done at the expense of classroom space, state aid would once again be sought and this time a real need could be shown in lack of classroom facilities.

Remember, however, there are many districts in Ohio which will get state aid. These districts hold classes today in the town hall, church basements, corners of the inadequate gyms, locker-rooms, restrooms and even boiler rooms. This goes on in 1960. These districts will receive the $10,000,000. Stow will not.

The problem of financing Stow schools is a complex one. The same problem exists in every district. It is hoped that this brief article has helped somewhat in accounting for the present situation in Stow. If there is any demand for additional articles of this nature either on the subject of state aid, financing Stow schools, or any other facet of the school problem, the writer will gladly prepare additional articles at the request of your editor.

Co-Op Supermarkets, Akron, Ohio Expand Purchase Two Additional Supermarkets

Cooperative Enterprises of Akron, operators of the Co-op supermarkets, has purchased two additional supermarkets from the Marchand Saveway Company in Canton, Ohio. A. J. Choat, General Manager of Co-op, stated: "This was a terrific buy for Co-op, we will acquire the complete inventory, equipment, fixtures, and assume the leases".

Co-op plans to immediately incorporate as a wholesaler with limited warehouse facilities.

The cooperative Enterprises of Akron are owned by some eight at your house. Bob McIntyre is hilarious as Francis, the son the other boys say mama always liked best, and Lu Martin as the third son, Rodla, is convulsing when he explains he always buys his clothing at Brooks Bros. "because you look like everybody else so nobody can see you."

It's hard to believe that Fred Sanborn, who plays Mrs. Gibbons' suitor with necessary pain, has never been on stage before. We hope the bug has bit him hard because he turned in as smooth as possible performance during a very rough stage life.

Betty Tarr, hardboiled auntie Myra, handles her part, including some wonderfully sharp lines, broadly (no pun intended) and consistently. She's the object of unwelcome attention from Woodrow Grupp, well-played by Stan Soha, and more welcome attention from "Horse" Wagner, fellow-vacationer of the older boys. Paul Snyder shows "Horse" as a rhinestone in the rough, slightly reminiscent of Humphrey Bogart.

Smaller parts, though by no means minor, were those of Mr. Rossini, an Italian grocer whose store is unfortunately located below the Gibbons' apartment, played by Frank Godfrey as though it had been written for him, and Charlie Coles, the harassed detective who knows the boys almost as well as their mother does - in fact, better in some ways. Mort Higgins does Charlie with an excellent Irish accent.

Direction by Jerry Miller was good - the show is fast-moving - the set is attractive but appropriate - makeup and wardrobe held no jarring notes. There were no opening night jitters apparent, no fumbling for lines.

Anyone who misses this show just doesn't WANT to laugh! It runs three more weekends, at Stow Town Hall Fridays and Saturdays. Reservations can be phoned in to OV 8-3124 or OV 8-5343.

Way Back When

by Frank Green

SHEEP IN STOW

I was born, not in Stow, but in Canfield, O., in 1868. This was three years after the close of the War between the States. Our town lost many of its nice boys in that bitter struggle, but it was a period of prosperity on the farms.

The big Union army that was needed had to be fed and clothed in a hurry, regardless of cost. Our Yankee forbears sent their sons to battle.

They needed no one to show them a bargain right at home. The uniform that every soldier wore was made of wool. Wool grows on sheep. Nuf sed.

Grandpa Stow was a poor farmer, but a shrewd trader. During the war he traded in sheep. Early and late he scoured the country all around us for sheep. His neighbors were waiting for him when he brought home a flock.

When he started buying he could get them for 50¢ apiece. When he quit a couple of years after, he had to pay $2 for them. He tried to make $1 a head. His profits paid for his farm of 80 acres and he bought more land.

At the close of the war profits dropped quickly, but many sheep were kept on our farms for some time.

The Merino was at that time the common breed kept. Their wool is short and very oily. The ewes were bred to lamb in the spring to the lambs could be turned out to pasture with their mothers when warm weather came. The sheep were shorn at that time.

Lambing time is a critical period. No female is dumber than a sheep unless it is a hen or a nuf sed!

The ewe sometimes disowns her lamb especially if she has twins. Of course the lambs come on a chilly spring night so the ewes should be watched or the lambs die. A late spring is a time of peril for the sheep that have just been shorn and turned out to pasture. Thousands of them have been frozen to death in a change of weather.

When I was a boy a premium was paid by buyers for "washed" wool. We had no good place to wash them so grandpa drove his flock to the Baker lot. The brook that runs through it in the spring, he dammed up, and we threw the sheep into the pond and washed them. While they were still wet, we drove them home through the road dust. That was "washed" wool!

Nature provides the frisky lamb with a tail, but its thrifty owner docked it off.

In the spring we children had usually orphan lambs to raise with a bottle. (Ed note: see back page of this issue) They did not follow us to school but were a nuisance around the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Radak, North Main Street, are vacationing in Florida.

Mrs. Snowden Kline, South Main Street, has returned home, after visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Cundiff, in Warsaw, Indiana.

Mrs. James Richards, is home after a check-up at an Akron hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Graham, Castle Drive, are the proud parents of a baby boy, born at St. Thomas Hospital, Akron. The Grahams have three other children, two daughters and a son.

Henry Kisamore, former Village resident, now residing in Cuyahoga Falls, is a patient at Akron City Hospital.

Mrs. Carl Zimmerman, Munroe Falls Avenue, has retired after forty-four years service in the public school system. For many years she has been a truant officer for the schools of Cuyahoga Falls.

5 years "Robbie", his wife, Josephine, and their son Randall, aged five, who was born in Stow, have resided at 2247 Graham Rd. Josephine is employed as an operator at Ohio Bell. Randall attends Mrs. Hackett's Kindergarten.

"I am especially appreciative of the police school, which Chief Woodard and Captain Harper have started. I'm so grateful to have the opportunity to have an active part in this school. There is no such thing as a 'specialist' in the police departmental work and activity. Every law officer should be acquainted as much as possible with every phase of law enforcement. Fingerprinting, plaster casts and deduction of clues at the scene of the crime....well no one thing is more important than the other," "Robbie" affirmed.

During the night guard the schedule of activity varies each week. Sometimes there is more action on Saturdays and Mondays; other weeks, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Traffic complaints, calls about cars, parked where they should not be parked, and the ever present domestic problems are some of the main reasons that keep the patrolman who rides the night, busy.

One night, while cruising on duty, "Robbie" spotted a car several times in different parts of the Village. There is a large picture window in the front of Patrolman Robison's home. The car, under watch by "Robbie", kept coming back to the Robison home. When the driver of this car was questioned about this after "Robbie" had stopped him, the driver stated that he had just been watching the woman in the window.

"I had warned my wife about closing the drapes on the window late at night. I took this man and brought him up to the door of my home where I introduced him to my wife. Haven't seen him around since," Patrolman Robison emphasized.

If you feel that night flies too fast and night police duty is a snap....make your own test. It is a full working day for "Robbie" and the other patrolmen and 'specialists', who work this turn. If you're planning to be bad or offensive in the wee small hours of the morning....you'll find this to be true....you'll wish you hadn't when you come to grips with scientific and technical training. You will rue the sometimes harsh and sometimes soft application of this training.

ONE MOTHER'S PRAYER

Dear Lord, Oh Father God, Almighty!
I lost my boy today.
Not really lost him Lord, for he's not away to stay.
He'll be home in eleven weeks for a short leave and then he'll go---again.
Dear Lord, please keep him happy and busy, so he'll not miss us at home,
And from what I hear, the Air Force will,
You see that's where he has gone
Dear Lord, and I was so happy too, for he wanted to go so much;
But I never knew how I'd miss him his smile, his jokes, his hair-- it's red you know--
And his bed! it never used to be made, and now its never mused.
There is no reason to go in that room, Dear Lord, but I can't stay away--
There are so many things there that belong to a boy--and he'll come back home a man.
Give me the strength, just enough, to let him know that I miss him so, but not enough to show,
so that it would make him unhappy, Just enough to let him know how much he is missed and loved;
and just enough to make him always want to come home!
It's hard not to hold on and to try to keep them forever close But what we hold too closely, we cannot ever hope to keep
So help me, Dear Lord, Oh Father Almighty, to grow up, with my son, to be the mother he thinks that I am.

wishes to remain un-named.)

ODDS AND ENDS

Bulldogs tasted defeat again in tournament play last weekend, 47-40. Cocozzo was high point man with 10.

Westgate and Moore both were placed on the All Metro team. They are both juniors, over 6 feet tall. Next year they may repeat.

Not much on the local sports scene. This is a respite between seasons, but baseball and track are coming soon.

On the national scene, the Buckeyes of Ohio State have clinched the Big Ten title. Looks as if they'll have it locked up next year too with virtually the same team returning. Big Jerry Lucas will undoubtedly place on All American team.

Our favorite Indians are going to have to be reckoned with this season. With the acquisition of Johnny Temple to play second, and the development of young pitchers, the Indians can certainly make a race of it.

Getting back to the local front, the Stow Boosters Club is making plans for an all-out drive to obtain members. Certainly it is a worthy organization, and if you have an interest in helping develop Stow sports, it will be worth while to climb on this bandwagon.

Many Stowites have already attended meetings and given their support. Watch next week's Stow Press for details of the Boosters' aims and plans for accomplishing them.

Holy Family's basketball team was defeated Feb. 27 by Immaculate Heart of Mary, 20-12.

They won by a forfeit the next day when St. Bernard didn't show at Hoban gym.

A new physical education program has gone into effect at Holy Family School, according to Sister M. Emmanuel, principal.

Boys in grades 4-8 now have physical education classes,

CLASSROOM CHILD (cont. from 2) Harold Benjamin, Prof. of Education at George Peabody Teachers' College, explained "We may come to teach fewer things thoroughly, rather than a wide area of things not so thoroughly. When we speak for one moral standard and practice another, one moral standard becomes an impossible achievement."

During the 5th General Session George Romney, president of General Motors, talked on citizenship responsibility in education. Mr. Romney said, "There must be a greater drive on the part of our children, who want greater meaning and learning in their lives; greater dedication from our administrators and teachers, who will instill this; and greater responsibility by the citizen groups and school boards for arousing and providing support of the parents."

Philip H. Coombs, secretary of the Fund for the Advancement of Education, urged educators to keep up with research and development, the testing of new ideas, new approaches and later evaluating the results to share with other school systems. While speaking during the 6th General Session Mr. Coombs urged school boards to set aside 1-2% of their annual budget for this purpose. "The Federal Government is spending 119 million dollars this year on agricultural research. The Office of Education has a total of 6.2 million dollars for educational research."

Stressed throughout this conference was the fact if the community seeks to get more for its tax dollar and will take a good look at the present taxing power

Terry Talks of High

Tests are becoming popular these days. About forty seniors went all the way up to Kent State University, Saturday, just to take one. Actually, the test they were so eager to take was the A.C.T. test, this stands for the American College Testing program. It is similar to the College Board tests and most of the prospective college students eventually take one or the other.

Things are beginning to roll! The senior class committees have been chosen. Sharon Brown is in charge of the name cards and announcements; she is also in charge of the selection committee which is a subdivision. Linda Seese is chairman of caps and gowns. Connie Diersing will take care of preparations for Senior Day, coming up at the end of March. Class Day is the day the seniors give a skit involving the wills and prophecies. Two committees are needed for this: Authors and Producers. These are to be handled by Bud Weeks and Jim Cowles respectfully. The social festivities will be planned by Cindy Brown and her committee. Bob Cueni has been placed in charge of Commencement and Baccalaureate services. One lone committee, for the gift, has no chairman - only three members; Jim Cowles, Judy Birdsall, and Nan Gaylor.

Senior Y-Teens have been busy with their sports lately. They formed a swim team which uses the Falls "Y" pool. February 22, they met with Cuyahoga Falls, Buchtel, Revere, Kent, and Hudson. Stow won third place in the meet and Judy Thomas received a third place in the diving division.

in order to get the proper support for proper and future education that teachers will improve, administrators will show greater leadership, school boards will be helped and the whole public school system will advance for the betterment of the child in the classroom.

CHRISTMAS TREE MEETING

Its going to seem like "Christmas in Spring Time" when the Summit County Christmas Tree Producers convene at the Darrowville Grange Hall on March 4th at 7:00 p.m.

The program will consist of three topics: Growers' Problems by Frank Bell, a local christmas tree grower, Marketing Outlook by William F. Cowan, Extension Forester from Ohio State University; and Retailing Problems by Frank Riccardi.
