Bob Golden, Press Summer Journalist, Killed Saturday In Auto Accident

Robert H. Golden, 25 year old Kent State University jour-nalism student who interned with The Stow Press during the past summer, was killed in an automobile accident Saturday, Sept. 10, when his sports convertible turned over on a curve in Brady Lake.

Many Stow residents had be-come familiar with Golden and his small black car as he made his way around Stow, gathering information for new stories, takinformation for new stories, tak-ing pictures, interviewing in-dividuals and picking up ad-vertising copy. He had completed his summer work a week prior to his death, and had left the Stow Press office looking forward to vacation before starting on his last year of university work last year of university work.

Golden was the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shilliday, Alliance. He graduated from Randolph High School, and

Way Back When by Frank Green

Maxwell Graham was a talented horticulturist. He bought land across the highway from his mother's big farm. His land joined his brother's on the east and extended south so that he had a large frontage on Silver Lake. Many acres of this land was placed to fruit: apples, pears, peaches, cherries and grapes. Mr. Graham prided himself on growing any fruit that would grow in this climate. I still remember the awful pucker I got trying to eat a green persimmon.

He raised apples commercially for Cleveland and Chicago markets. They were barrelled on the farm. There were many varieties, but the big market apple was the Baldwin. Most of the fruit in those happy days was perfect. Cider was made by the barrel and, of course, preserved in every degree of fermentation. Grape and other kinds of wine were made in quantity. This nice scotchman enjoyed life fully. His daughter, Mary,

"My dear father once told me: once said that he never knew the time when he wanted to go to bed or to get up in the morning"

Mary came to school carrying two pails. One with her lunch in it and a bigger one full of apples to give away. Maxwell and his wife were members of the Congregational Church in the Falls and mixed socially with friends there. John and his cousin, Will, went to dances in all the towns around here. Years afterward some nice looking matron would come to me in the cemetery and proudly say: "I (Cont. on Page 2)

Stow Council Acts, Looks, Listens

Council, in their Sept. 8 meeting, passed an ordinance establishing standard specifications of 4 foot width and 4 inch depth for concrete sidewalks constructed on public highways within the municipality, with an additional 2 inches required at driveway entrances. These specifications conform to state highway specs for "Class C" concrete. No gravel aggregate is to be used in the concrete. They then passed a resolution providing for walks to be con-structed on Graham Rd, from Darrow Rd, to the end of school property at Lakeview and Highproperty at Lakeview and High-land Schools, and from Vira Rd. to the end of Woodland School property. Property owners on both sides will be assessed for the cost of the walks. Leo J. Kline was authorized by resolution to erect a business sign at 713 Graham Rd. for his animal hospital, permission grant-ed for one year.

ed for one year. Council voted to purchase, by monthly rental, with rent by monthly rental, with rent applying toward purchase, a street sweeper for $1800. They hope to avoid clogged sewers this fall by sweeping debris before it is washed into storms.

LEGAL ACTION AGAINST STOW

Law Director Herman Werner explained to Council underlying reasons of a legal action taken against the village of Stow by Mrs. Eleanor S. McCullough, Mrs. McCullough desires judgement of zoning classification for property at 3893 Darrow Rd., where she owns a two-room office building. As the building was already being used for business when new zoning was made effective, she feels entitled to B-1 use classification, rather than R-2 which is residential.

Council authorized Mr. Werner to file motions, demurs and answers to the suit.

STOW'S FIRST BONDS

The first bonds for Stow since incorporation - Mac Dr. paving bonds - arrived in time for Council to pass them around for a look before the mayor and finance director signed them.

PROGRESS ON PHONE PROBLEMS

The ball is rolling for Stow residents to be within local phone distance of one another. About 250 village residents are in the Kent exchange. MULLINS CASE

A number of citizens were on hand for Council meeting to hear Angelo Fanello, Akron attorney and member of an "investigat-ing committee" of V.F.W. plead with council for a public hearing to air reasons for non-confirma-tion of former Patrolman James Mullins' appointment as a regular policeman on the Stow force. We don't wish to keep these enterprising young people from selling enough advertising to support their publications - who knows better than we how impor-tant that is! and co-captains. Dan Packard and Ralph Richardson. It was the annual preview in which Stow played two one-quarter events against Boston and Twinsburg. Stow looked rusty against Boston, whom they played first, getting off to a poor start when Boston recovered a Stow fumble during the 2nd play Boston didn't waste any time in quickly scoring from Stow's 30-yard line, and then adding the two extra points. Stow then took possession on their own 30-yard line where Stow's quarterback, Larry Kerr, trying the air, passed the pig-skin directly into the arms of a Boston player. He ran the pass back to the 9-yard line where Stow looked good for the first time in making a goal-line stand. John Sandercox punted out of the end zone for Stow when their offense failed again to gain enough ground. After a couple of plays on defense, the quarter was over and Stow was on the short side by a score of 8-0. After the colorful half-time activities in which our band participated and did a fine job.

Last weekend most of the Stow High grads left for college. That is a reminder to all you seniors, have you sent in your applications for the college of your choice yet? Better get a move on if you haven't. College classes get their quotas quicker than ever now.

Talking about class quotas! Buddy, have you felt kinda crowd-ed at the high school when you're going from class to class? Where do all the people come from? It could be because not everyone it could be because not even one is headed straight to their next class. People are still wander-ing around saying "Where's class. People are still wander-ing around saying "Where's 302?" and "Where'd you say 218 was?" Contrary to the rumors going around that we would have six long classes to the day in which we would have a study hall part of each, we have eight periode like slaware one are periods like always.
